Use Gentleness.
Be gentle in stimulating the kidneys, otherwise you will excite and weaken them. The happiest results follow the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters to overcome renal inactivity. Avoid the unmedicated, fiery stimulants of commerce. The kidneys have a delicate membrane easily irritated, and upon this the action of such stimulants is pernicious. Malarial complaints, indigestion, rheumatism, neuralgia and biliousness succumb to the corrective influence of the Bitters.

Pill Clothes.

The good pill has a good coat. The pill coat serves two purposes; it protects the pill, enabling it to retain all its remedial value, and it disguises the taste for the palate. Some pill coats are too heavy; they will not dissolve in the stomach, and the pills they cover pass through the system as harmless as a bread pellet. Other coats are too light, and permit the speedy deterioration of the pill. After 30 years exposure, Ayer's Sugar Coated Pills have been found as effective as if just fresh from the laboratory. It's a good pill with a good coat. Ask your druggist for Electricity in Ship Yards.

The extensive adoption of electric power in shipyards is only a question of time, for already many of the most progressive shipbuilding concerns in this country and Europe have realized the great advantages offered by electric power, owing to the portability of the apparatus, which can be used in any position and for many purposes, without rigid mechanical connections. Among the newest applications in this direction, says the Philadelphia Record, are electrically driven capstans and electric lifts. It is a great convenience in a shipyard to have a large number of electrically driven capstans, which can be started at any moment by shutting a switch. By means of these capstans hand cars, on which material is placed, are hauled in any desired direction by the distribution of snatch blocks over the whole area. By means of the same capstans the plates and angles are also lifted into their places. The electric capstan has proved one of the most useful applications of electric transmission of power. In shipyards there is very little slope, so that the keels are laid at a great height from the ground. For instance, if the molded depth of a vessel is thirty feet the height of the keel at the forward end will probably be fifty feet. Formerly a high stairway was used, and in this way much valuable time was consumed, but the most progressive yards have adopted electric hoists to transport men and materials to the upper decks.

Uncommonly Considerate.

Bicycle Prices Fall.

After several years of exorbitantly large profits the manufacturers of bicycles have been compelled to very largely reduce their prices. The public actually refused to longer pay $100 for a machine which can be built for one-quarter that amount.

A few makers saw this some time ago and put on the market cheaper machines at very greatly reduced prices which set out into the business of the higher priced manufacturers that in pure self defense they were compelled to bid good-bye to their old high prices.

Why should not the same thing occur with type-writing machines? They no doubt cost considerably less to produce than bicycles, and yet some of them are selling at the ridiculously high price of $100. It is fair to infer that a machine which sells at $50 costs close to $15 to manufacture.

If a few large department stores in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, etc., would arrange for large quantities to be manufactured for them by some one outside of a trust the prices would come down to reasonable figures as have those of bicycles.

What Becomes of Them?

Of the 119,900,000 old copper cents which were sent out from the mint only the 900,000 have been accounted for, and only now and then is a stray one of the remaining 19,000,000 seen in circulation. Of the 4,500,000 bronze 2-cent pieces sent out only 1,500,000 ever found their way back, leaving 3,000,000 to be accounted for, and there are an equal number of nickel 3-cent pieces somewhere in the country, though it is very rarely one is seen.

My tells us that by pushing aside one hundred and ninety-nine out of a thousand will yield. "And what matters if you considered obtrusive, provided you are able and struggles of the face world."

Hugo, in speaking to young men said: "It is the learning at midnight that will make you bright and dazzling as in the sun." In this terse epigram the great man stated a truth that is equally to struggling, ambitious men the world over.

Fish Weighing 115 Pounds.

A enormous catfish, weighing 115 lb. was recently pulled out of the Fox river near the bridge by a fisherman. In many respects it was the most interesting fish taken from the Fox River in a number of years. It was purchased by W. K. and when exhibited in a buggy Douglas street attracted quite a number of spectators.

Immense jaws were wide apart, was seen that they could completely close over a man's head. In the big one from the water the man had quite a time. He had a hook attached to a trout line. In the first felt the tugging he began to pull, but he found that the force was more than he expected. He pulled in hand over hand he at thought that the hook was attached to a sunken log, but he kept on pulling. When the fish neared the shore he began to lash the water into his tail. The fisherman saw that the catch was of whale proportions, and he found that it would be impossible to land him alone in the ordinary fashion. Attaching a line to a tree, he went to his house and procured a rifle. One bullet in a place was sufficient to put a quietus on the catfish and he was hauled ashore. He was the biggest fellow the fisherman had ever caught, and, as he said himself, the biggest he ever expected to catch. It weighed in at 115 pounds, and after dressing tipped the scales at 115 pounds.

Although the fish was quite large according to the stories of some of the men who viewed it, it is not the largest by far which has been caught in the Sioux City. About six years ago a fish was lifted out of the Missouri river which weighed 274 pounds. The statement and said he saw the fish in the Sioux City (Iowa) Tribune.

Air-Motor Street

In Washington, D. C. a new air-motor car equipped with a remarkably motor which is performing its large well and the prospect is bright. The adaptation are very well operated compressed air-motors. Home on the Eckington street to the railway; has been more than full-severe tests. In fact, orders filled all expected cars on this for equipment. Machines have been line with the recently predicted given and it is all the street cars that in a short time will be actuated of the National City. It is claimed that by compressed air-motors, the speed is under control than any that it is slower; that a charged other fully matter of a few minutes, motor is the most economical of and the most in operation.

World's Youngest Teacher.

A teachers' examination at Des Moines, the other day, before the State Superintendent, Revillo, the twelve-year-old son of William Shearer, successfully passed the examination, and was awarded a license. He is conceded by instructors to be the youngest teacher in the State of Indiana, if not in the United States. He has always shown exceptional educational abilities, and will no doubt become a successful teacher, even at the early age.
